INTRODUCTORY NOTE

One of the activities of our Comenius Programme ACTIVE FOR EU, is creating a multilingual dictionary in order to allow communication between the various partners, familiarizing children with European languages and linguistic diversity. This dictionary will certainly help them in the future. Children will be motivated to learn through making them familiar with multiple languages and even learning new words and usual foreign phrases. We want to turn the curiosity of children for the foreign languages and to show parents that it is necessary that, in a united Europe, the children from today – the citizens of tomorrow, possess the language skills that enable them to promote their own traditions, but also to easily understand and accept the traditions of others and to creatively join the European cultural space. Since our dictionary aims, above all, a very young target audience, children from 2 to 10 years old, we came up with a very simple structure, by themes of everyday life, where words are presented in English, the common language used to communicate between the various partners, and the corresponding word in each language. It is our belief that, for our aims, this is the ideal structure, presenting no problems for a dictionary that only reproduces a translation of terms, since the lexical units are part of the everyday life, in this particular case, of children. We consider that this should be the main goal of multilingual dictionaries in general.
